Healthcare

Introduction

Our Healthcare Practice has in-depth knowledge of working with private sector businesses involved in the delivery of healthcare services, either to the NHS or directly to the patient.

We work at Board and senior management level, identifying high-quality executives – often with a background in a different industry – to help develop fast-growing businesses in what is a rapidly changing sector.

Simon Coxon leads this specialist area.

The Team

Simon Coxon, Partner, has over 10 years' recruitment experience covering all senior management disciplines.

He has a particular specialism in private sector healthcare and infrastructure, working closely with contractors, advisers and equity investors.

His earlier career was in audit with KPMG; he joined Curzon in 1997 and is now Managing Partner.

David Timson, Senior Partner, began his career as an economist with the Bank of England.

He then held senior treasury, project and corporate finance roles with British Gas, GKN and GPT.

A recruiter for the past 12 years, he has handled over 200 assignments across all areas of industry, banking and commerce, from Chief Executives to specialist functions.

Before Curzon, he managed the UK's largest retained executive recruitment company.

Sam Bell qualified as an accountant in London and was a Partner with Price Waterhouse for ten years in UK and South America.

Since leaving the profession in the early nineties, he has held Financial and General management positions at Board level in both public and private companies which include United Medical Enterprises.

Our expertise

Our market is, exclusively, private sector firms that provide healthcare services directly to the general population or to the NHS. These services can be offered through traditional means or PFI/PPP contracts; our clients include hospital operators, contractor and FM firms, medical equipment groups and private equity investors.

We recruit at Board and senior management level – we understand thoroughly the functions of general management, finance, strategy, human resources, business development and operations. Another strength of ours is identifying talented people to join PPP-related bid teams and SPVs, both in an executive and Independent Director/Chair capacity. We have also worked extensively with the PFI infrastructure teams of banks and advisory firms.
